

WELCOME

“A picture is worth a thousand words”. That’s exactly what we are doing for this special edition of our eNewsletter where you get to see more pictures (screenshots) than previous text-based eNewsletter.*

This eNewsletter would not be possible without the support from all of you, our valued registered users. This edition is special as we have an article from a user who forecast the Euro 2008 Cup matches using our ‘KW I-Ching’ software. We also included an article on how we used our ‘BaziGua’ software to forecast the final match. In addition, we also include other forecasts using BaziGua as well. Hopefully, you will learn something from these articles.

We hope you will enjoy reading this Special Edition as much as we had in compiling them. Tell us more about how you use our software, how it helps you, tips on any metaphysic systems; or anything that can make us live a healthier and happier lifestyle. If all goes well, expect a Quarterly issue! Otherwise, it will be a round-up issue released end of each Year.

Lastly, let us all enjoy the fun and knowledge together for a healthier and better tomorrow!!!

*Best Regards
Ronnie*

ABOUT OUR WEB SITE

We did minor changes to our website recently. By re-arranging and amending the body text, and including Text headlines, the overall impression becomes different. Of course, what’s more important is beneath the wild, wow affect on website design – the quality of our products which many users have been so used to.

Some users thought we had paid ‘Internet Direct Marketing’ gurus to help us revamp the web site. No, we didn’t. Some others thought it looks like a ‘persuasive site’; while others thought it was different and nice, for a change.

We wanted to differentiate ourselves from other similar sites. Since our software are targeted at the English-speaking users, the look need not be ‘too Chinese’, so to speak. It was fun adding the text headlines which changes the overall mindset. It does make a difference.

Do drop by our web site regularly, as we do post news and updated information on frequently.

FORTHCOMING RELEASE - CHINESE ALMANAC

“When will the Chinese Almanac 2009 be ready?”

This is one of the common questions many users have been asking us. We thought we might as well let all users know here.

There will not be any 2009 edition. Instead, a FULL edition will replace the Yearly edition.

Development on the FULL edition of “CHINESE ALMANAC” is almost completed anytime and we’re doing some internal testing. We are expecting to launch this new edition by end of October 2008. It will support years ranging from 2006 – 2016. We may add more functions and extending the years in later updates, if time permit. The current focus is to get the FULL edition out so that users can use them quickly.

The ability to have a FULL edition is made possible due to some advancement we had in our research on Chinese almanac information. Registered users can now benefit as they can now made any date selection up to 2016. The tangible gain (obvious) is “no more yearly purchase is needed.”

NEW RELEASE - BAZILITE (PPC)

On 20th August 08, we released a new 'revised' version of our BaziLite (PPC) software; targeted at users with Pocket PC and Windows Mobile PDA device.

The revised version improves on the compatibility issue we had encountered with different hardware configurations in our original first release.

There is one feature in BaziLite (PPC) which is currently not available on BaziCalc – additional option to allow specifying date based on Chinese Lunar dates!

Though the features in BaziLite (PPC) is not as many as the BaziCalc (Palm), users can still look forward to using the software for their basic Bazi analysis. It is ideal for users who want a basic and fast Bazi software tool... at a 'lower' price.

Information on BaziLite (PPC) can be found at our web site: <http://www.meganworx.com/bazilite.html>

Please share this information with your friends who are using PPC or Windows Mobile PDA...

SUPPORTING NEW DEVICE – SYMBIAN S60

On 25th Sept 08, I gave a short presentation to more than 30 members who attended the BaziClub gathering organized by one of our Masters. During the presentation, screenshots of BaziLite (S60) were shown.

Naturally the excitement was there as many users are familiar with Nokia phones. The lucky ones were happier when I installed the demo copy to their phones. There were some disappointed users as their phone is not a Symbian S60 3rd Edition model.

BaziLite (S60) is still in the preliminary 'alpha' stage. There are no plans for any official release this year. The objective of the demo is to allow us to test the various keys on various phones for navigating the chart.

We're glad we had installed the demo copy on some member's phones as we could gather instant feedback on the functionality of the software.

When completed, the features in the FULL version may be similar to the BaziLite (PPC) version.

How I forecast the recent Euro 2008 winner using KW I-Ching – Djohar Koh

Forecast Date: 27 June 2008
Forecast Time: 2:24pm (Friday)

Question: Will Germany win the Euro 2008 Cup?

Germany element is Fire 巳 and is indicated as Void (disappeared, not there). The FIRE element for Germany is not strong (as it's not supported by Day 戌). Even though it may be supported by the Month (Fire 午), this is more for longer term. As the match only last for 2 hours, the day element is much more important in this case.

The Subject line from Snake 巳 changes into Ox 丑, but in a 'Retreat' sequence which imply it is not so useful. The Ox 丑 on the 3rd line changes into Rooster (酉 Metal), and is in Advance sequence which imply the Rooster may be useful; and the Rooster (Metal) is supporting the 申 Monkey (Spain)

Spain element is 申 Metal, and is well supported by the Day element, 戌 Earth (Dog).

In addition, there is another Earth element (Dog) which is next to the Monkey, providing additional support to the Monkey (申 Metal) – this denotes the Spain team is very strong.

The "Early Hexagram" is a "Total Combination" 合 so we can usually expect the first round to be more of a "friendly" match not a hard play.

At the end of the match, we can say that Spain will be the winner

ABOUT KW I-CHING SOFTWARE

We studied the "Wen Wang I-Ching" from Master Raymond Lo (Hong Kong) some years back.

A few months later, an early prototype of "KW I-Ching" was completed to help us improve on our analysis. Further research were done to know more in-depth on this common system and how we can speed up our analytical skills. Most importantly, we want to understand the basic fundamentals and apply the techniques learned correctly... and quickly plot the charts on our PDA.

"KW I-Ching" would not be possible without the wonderful help from our beta testers who, apart from testing the robustness of the program, also contributed to the additional information and features of the software.

Information on the 'KW I-Ching' (Palm) software is available at:

EURO 1

S=NETHERLANDS
O=RUSSIA

Both teams seem to be strong as they are both supported by Day Element 辰 Earth and Month Element 午 Fire. But Netherlands is sitting on a VOID line implying the team will disappear (loser); and is also sitting on the 寅 Tiger – 6 Animal (denoting Bad Luck).

The elements of 酉 Rooster and 亥 Pig on the Netherlands side are not helpful, and makes them weaker.

Russia on the other hand has slightly better luck compared to Netherlands. The 卯 Rabbit (wood) could not do much to weaken the Russia as the Rabbit changes into 寅 Tiger; and in a Retreat sequence meaning that it is weak and not useful.

Since there is Clash 冲 on the hexagram but later change into other hexagram, we may expect there will be an aggressive and hard play during the first round.

We can say that Russia is the winner

How I forecast the recent Euro 2008 winner using BaziGua – by Ronnie

Date: 27 June 2008
Time: 08: 56am (Friday)

Question: Will Germany win the Euro 2008 Cup?

From a standard Bazi analysis, the Day Master (戊 Wu Earth) is strong with supporting elements surrounding it. In addition, the Earth element is also supported by the Season (午 Wu Fire).

When we are doing a forecasting using BaziGua and our enhanced analytical method, we are not overly concerned about whether the Day Master is strong or weak. Instead, we need to focus our attention on the actual issue first, before complementing our analysis with other factors.

Those who had attended our 1st workshop would understand what we meant by that.

Here, we need to identify the key focus which is the Output (庚 Metal) of the team. Based on the 10-Gods theory, the '甲 Jia Wood' (七杀) will attack the metal element.

If you look at the chart, the 甲 and 亥 in the Minute Pillar (far left column) is weakening the 己 element. The 己 (劫财) denotes 'losing wealth' implying a losing negative result.

If your intuition and BaziGua skills are good, the current 'evidences' are more than enough to determine the outcome.

Now refer to the '6 Clashes' table and you can easily identify the clashes between 子 and 午; 辰 and 戌. When there are just too many clashes 'beneath' it also imply that on the surface Germany may look like a strong team to their supporters (戊 比肩), the team members are individually stressed up - weakening.

Through the BaziGua chart, you can also easily 'look' at the match as a whole – from start to the ending. And with a bad ending indicator, Germany will not win the EuroCup 2008.

I was persuaded by many users to teach them how to use the BaziGua software effectively from 2006.

In Jan 2008, I decided to hold my first informal workshop on "Using BaziGua" to a selective group of 20 users.

Participants were taught on the "Bazi ShenGua" theory and how to use our 'enhanced' method to do a forecasting. Case studies were explained, including live forecasting made in class as the main purpose is to learn how to apply the techniques they've just learned.

There is so much I still don't know about this unique system. I decided to start the workshop to impart what I know, and to share and learn from the participants as well. To teach is to learn twice, so to speak. The response was encouraging and everyone learns this unique system together as one united team.

ABOUT BAZISHENGUA

We've studied the 'BaziShenGua' (八字神卦) theory from Master Guo (Taiwan) sometime in early 2005. We were introduced to the 5th pillar (Minutes) and taught how to use the conventional Bazi method for analysis.

It was rather fun predicting events. We started predicting the colour (including shades, patterns) of the clothes of someone whom we will be meeting the next day. In some cases, we also predict the time a particular student will step into the classroom.

As our skills improved, the accuracy becomes worst. We found using the 'Bazi' method to predict does not allow us to achieve a much higher accuracy level as we hope to be. We wanted more than just 'guesstimate'. Maybe our skills, foundation and experience were not strong enough compared to others.

While practicing and trying to figure out the 'why' and 'how', we had a major breakthrough in 2006. By re-aligning our focus from a different approach, it helps us to quickly identify the key factor and focus on the main issue.

Our enhanced method has allowed us to achieve a high accuracy for predictions.

Let us emphasize that there is no such thing as a 100% accurate forecast EVERYTIME. We are not God and should NOT behave like one; or claimed to be ONE.

However, with a strong understanding of the fundamentals and applications of the specific divination systems, we can fine tune and further enhance our analytical skill sets.

For every accurate forecast made, there may be many inaccurate ones done as well. It is equally important to do our best to re-look at the inaccurate forecast and learn from our mistake. In many cases, it is normal to find that though the BaziGua chart may be accurate, it's our analytical skill set, experience, and focus that 'influence' the outcome of the forecast result.

Lastly, our intuitions, sincerity, focus and beliefs do play a substantial part in contributing to the outcome of our forecast analysis.

Case Study: Additional BaziGua charts

Immediately after the Singapore Table Tennis team has won the Quarter-Final match at the Beijing Olympic 2008, I made a prediction while on my way back home.

The question came to mind and I quickly noted the time.

The wonderful thing about doing a BaziGua prediction is that you do not need to do a prediction on the spot. The question is "Will the Singapore Table Tennis Team wins the Final match against China and gets the Gold medal?"

After dinner, I took out my PDA and launch BaziGua, and entered the prediction details. An SMS was then sent to the 20 people in our "BaziGua-1" list, from those who attended the first workshop.

On 25th Sept 2008 at 4:40pm, a friend suddenly asked me about the F1 Singapore Grand Prix event. The question: 'Will Hamilton or Massa wins the race at the Qualifying race on Sat?'

Those of you who are familiar with other divination systems would also know that when an ambiguous question of this nature is made, it is not possible to gather the answer as we do not know which subject we should focus on.

So I rephrased the question to "Will Hamilton wins Massa in the Qualifying race on Saturday 27th Sep 08?"

An analysis was done and prediction made on the same day. However, the SMS was only sent on Saturday morning to the "BaziGua-1" member list, with a brief description of my analysis and forecast.

When a divination is made and the time is used, the Qi energies are derived based on the time the question was made. If the prediction is made on the PDA and the system clock shows 6:16pm, then this time should be used as the time made for the prediction, and not the 'absolute' time.

On 10 Jan 2008, I was at a FengShui talk organised by a close associate when a group of participants (I think about 8 of them) asked about BaziGua software. One user then asked me "Will Hiliary or Obama win the Presidential election?" Immediately, I told him such ambiguous question cannot be answered. I then rephrased the question to "Will Hiliary wins the 2008 Presidential election?" I then asked what he was focusing on, in relation to the question. He replied 'Money'. After a while, I told him my answer would be "No."

Finally, here's the last BaziGua chart for this issue. On 8th Oct 2008 at 8:40am, I did a forecast. The question was "Will Obama be the next USA President after George Bush Jr.?"

Obama's presence is stronger than McCain, maybe due to the extensive media coverage in this region. He seems to be 'almost everywhere' telling the world his visions. I hope he would be the next President, for a radical change. As I am not into politics, I would not know much about substances and values there. In the metaphysics world, there's also indication of a potential changes this Year in the West.

The Power element was used as the key focus here.

Though I still prefer Obama to win, this may not be the case. After looking at the chart, there are indications that after all the confident and eloquent speeches at his aggressive campaigns, the majority may still vote for John McCain because of conventional values based on racial and traditional beliefs.

Out of curiosity, I decided to check how Obama is on 4th Nov, the day Americans will decide who their next President is. So, I adjusted the BaziGua pillars.

"Wait a minute, the above chart for 4th Nov 08 is wrong!" many of you would say. Well, that's one unique feature of BaziGua & the BaziGuaShengGua system.

Those who'd attended the 1st BaziGua workshop would know what 'adjusted pillars' is all about.

Now, let's look at the adjusted chart using the standard Bazi analysis approach. Notice that the Month branch has changed to 亥, changing and affecting the Seasonal Strength. In addition, the combination of 亥子丑 elements further weakens the Day Master.

This could imply is that on Nov 4th 2008, Obama will be very stressed up though outwardly confident. That day may not be favourable to him as well.

This forecast is one of those where my mind and heart are not in 'sync'. If I'm wrong in this prediction, then it'd be more compelling for me to re-analyse the chart again, so that I can further improve my skill sets and understanding of this unique BaziShenGua (八字神卦) system

As usual, an SMS was then sent to the "BaziGua-1" member list on my forecast, to allow us to share, discuss and learn from each other's findings.

You would have noticed we did not include detailed explanations on the additional BaziGua charts. These may be explained in next Quarter issue, if there are requests from users. We may also include our analysis on the Obama forecast, regardless of the outcome of the Presidential election on 4th Nov 2008.

Recently, we received many requests again to organize a second workshop.

If you are interested to attend the '2-evenings' workshop (in Singapore only), please send us an email. We will inform you once the second workshop schedule is confirmed.

How I presented my Palm titles to the PC and projector – by Ronnie

Many of you who had attended my presentations on our Palm titles would have noticed I was able to connect my Palm PDA to the PC and then project them out to the screen.

I started using "Margi Presenter" a hardware gadget but stopped using them after one or two presentations, due to hardware frequency issues.

I then used "PDAReach", a US$24 software that allows me to control my Palm PDA directly from my computer in real-time, much cheaper and quicker than the "Margi Presenter" gadget I'd bought earlier!

Connection is simple – I'd connect the Palm PDA to my system and launch the PDAReach Desktop client software on my PC. I then launched the PDAReach Palm software on my PDA and tap the CONNECT button, and the Palm screen would be seen on the PC and/or projector.

As the PDAReach Desktop is a Windows application, you can even take a screenshot (with or without the skin, or with black background) and print them out if needed.

I'd highly recommend "PDAReach" if you need to connect your Palm PDA to the PC and showoff your presentation.

Check out the PDAReach software at: www.junefabrics.com/pdareach/index.php
